New Door and Frame Parts Catalog Now Available Also New – Anytime Ordering

March 9, 2010 FONTANA, Calif. — Door Components has published a new door and frame parts catalog, describing and illustrating more than 125 parts manufactured by the company.

Company president Bob Briggs said, “Dealers tell us they place great confidence in our parts, because they know we sell the same parts that we use in the doors and frames that we sell.”

“We used our own parts on doors and frames in the Warnock-Hersey-certified 10 Million Door Slam test of our standard products. This test exceeded the ANSI standard by a factor of 20. All our parts are made of 100% American steel,” Briggs concluded.

Among the content in the manual is detailed technical information on:

- Anchors
- Hinge Accessories
- Strike and Lock Accessories
- Miscellaneous

The company also announced a new capability to place parts orders through an online order form. Same-day shipping is available for most parts, as they are manufactured in house.

The parts catalog is available on the Door Components website; it currently posted on the Home page <http://www.doorcomponents.com/> and is also one of many documents to be found in the website Library <http://www.doorcomponents.com/library.htm>.
